The lively and well organised setting works with a good understanding of children's individuality, which enables their learning and welfare needs to be met overall.

Children show good levels of independence and enjoyment as they make choices and access interesting play opportunities.

Staff support children's language development as they ask questions and encourage children to express themselves.

The setting has good partnerships with parents and others to support the progress that most children make.

The safe environment also promotes children's independence and their ability to make decisions.

There have been significant improvements since the last inspection and the manager has a clear idea of future targets and priorities.

The setting has effective partnerships with parents and key persons promote these through regular contacts both formally and informally. In addition, the setting works with a good understanding of the need to have effective partnerships with others in order to support children's ongoing learning and development.

Children play in spacious, attractive and well organised accommodation. They are able to access resources that promote their all round development and staff play an effective part in this. Staff facilitate the choices made by children and respond sensitively to their individual needs.

Key persons know their children very well and are able to give them the space that they require to develop as young learners.

The setting is inclusive as all children are supported as individuals, each with the capacity to build on what they can already do.

Staff allow children to have a sense of their diverse world through planned activities which are age appropriate. Children with additional learning needs or who use English as an additional language are well supported by the setting and often benefit from one to one support.

Trust: Cutback is part of strategy to 'improve efficiency'

Anger as Horton beds are axed

George Parish, of
Keep the Horton Campaign

HOSPITAL campaigners have demanded a meeting with health chiefs over concerns about bed losses at Banbury's Horton Hospital. Oxford Radcliffe Hospitals

By Sam McGregor

Trust has put forward plans for the loss of 17 beds at the Horton, and at least 42 at the John Radcliffe Hospital, Oxford. It says the move is part of its strategy to improve efficiency and reduce the length of stay patients have in hospital.

The trust says "it is not intending to lose staff" but as a result of changes, staff may have to transfer to Oxford or other specialties at the Horton or within the trust.

But the Keep the Horton Campaign group, which has been working with the ORH for years to save the hospital, is furious it was not consulted and has called for a meeting with the trust's chief executive, Sir Jonathan Michael.

Campaigner George Parish said the group was "very concerned" about the loss of beds and was angry it had been kept in the dark over the latest plans.

He said: "We are upset that we were not told about this before it was made public. It makes everyone very angry."

"We are going to meet with

Sir Jonathan and Andrew Stevens to talk this through and be told what is going on.

"The children's ward and maternity have been under threat previously and we secured them both and thought everything was safe."

Mr Parish is among several campaigners and hospital staff who have been part of the better healthcare programme set up to secure the future of the Horton.

Another campaigner, Dr Peter Fisher, also of the Consultants Association and a former Horton consultant, said: "The only way to save money in the health service is in staff and that means closing beds. The problem is where are we going to put these people?"

He acknowledged the problems with bed-blocking — the Horton says it now has 20 patients who are medically fit to be discharged but care packages are not in place, but also blamed politicians for wasting money on the "ridiculous re-organisation" of the NHS.

An ORH spokesman said: "Seven of the beds at the Horton will be taken from the surgical ward and ten from medical. This reduction in beds is part of the trust's strategy to improve its efficiency and reduce the length of stay of patients in its hospitals."

A&E waiting times

ALMOST half of hospital A&E patients have to wait more than three hours to be seen.

Figures obtained by the Banbury Cake show that in May 1,527 out of 3,400 patients had to wait three hours or more in the Horton's A&E. The national target, to be seen in four hours, is 95 per cent.

A total of 3,255 patients were seen at the Horton within four hours, or 95.7 per cent.

A spokesman for Oxford Radcliffe Hospitals NHS Trust blamed problems on bed-blocking.

She said: "Meeting the four-hour standard has been a particular challenge for the trust."

"Mainly because of the knock-on effect of having a high number of patients with a delayed discharge."

£10,000 boost for Banbury CAB

By Sam McGregor

AN appeal to expand an in-demand Banbury charity has been given a £10,000 boost.

Banbury Town Council has donated the cash to the town's Citizens' Advice Bureau.

The Cornhill based charity, which helps people with issues including about debt, unemployment, benefits and housing, want to renovate an adjoining property to provide extra space for staff to see more people.

A £100,000 appeal was launched last October and has so far raised almost £75,000.

The appeal was launched because the size of the current building it has to turn one in four people away as there is no space to hold interviews.

Vice-chairman of the council's resources committee, John Colegrave, said: "Banbury Town Council is pleased to be able to make a significant contribution to the appeal."

"The CAB provides invaluable advice to the people of Banbury, particularly in the current economic climate and we are delighted to be able to support their expansion which will provide an improved service for our residents."

Appeal chairman Sir Frank Davies said: "We are very grateful to the town council for their extremely generous donation."

"They have always been a good friend of the Citizens' Advice Bureau and we appreciate them very much."

"This brings us to approximately three-quarters of our target so we still have some way to go."

"Times are hard but that is exactly why our resources are under such pressure."

"We are very grateful to everybody who has supported us already and they should realise how their generosity will help struggling people for years to come."

"It is no exaggeration to say that lives have been turned around by advice and help at the right time."

"If every small business in the district made even a small donation it would make such a difference."

The CAB has also written to businesses across Banbury asking for donations, and it will benefit from a fundraising family fun day at the Rugby Club on August Bank Holiday Monday.

Self-service kiosks introduced

SELF-SERVICE kiosks have been introduced at Cherwell District Council's four main LinkPoint offices to allow residents to pay council tax, fines, business rates or buy car park season tickets. The kiosks went live at Bodicote House on Monday, and will be introduced at Castle Quay on August 23, Market Square in Bicester on August 9 and Exeter Hall in Kidlington on August 16.

In the pink!

DRESSED in pink tutus, wings and bunny ears, more than 1,000 runners took part in Banbury's Race for Life.

And each one had a special reason for being there.

Tiffany Moss, 30, of Banbury, lost her mother to cancer in 2009.

"She had gall bladder cancer, which is very rare – something like 50 cases a year," she said.

"Her death was very quick. She was diagnosed in March and died in October. Chemotherapy was non-responsive.

"It just seemed so unfair, but the support from Katharine House Hospice, in Adderbury, was just phenomenal.

"I want to give back

By Tom Jennings

and to remember."

She attended with friends Louisa Castle, 33, and Hayley Squires, 33.

The event took place at Broughton Castle on Saturday and raised £105,000 for Cancer Research UK. Race for Life events raise about one fifth of the charity's income.

Those taking part, walked, jogged or ran around a five-kilometre course through the north Oxfordshire countryside.

Janice Hall, 51, of Bucknell Road, Bicester, said: "My husband is being treated at the moment for skin cancer.

"It is not a very nice feeling. You just feel anxious all the time."

She added: "I also had a friend that died from cancer seven years ago.

"I helped her through it. It was heart-wrenching.

"She knew she was going to die but wanted to see

Christmas. She died on December 23.

"Today is about remembering the people you have lost and hoping one day that they just might come up with a cure. They have got to."

She attended with seven friends from work, a Bicester-based disability care charity called Care and Independence.

Janet Paxton, 59, of Balmoral Avenue, Banbury, said: "My mum died of colon cancer three years ago.

"It was pretty awful for her, especially towards the end.

"You just feel helpless because you know there is nothing you can do to take the pain away.

"But Katharine House Hospice looked after her brilliantly, and we are just so grateful for that.

"We are here to raise money to help fight this awful disease."

She attended with her friend, Ronnie Mallinson, 60, of The Fairway in Banbury, and her daughter, Michelle Welling, 41, and 11-year-old granddaughter, Jemma.

Cancer Research UK area events manager Becky Ryczowski said: "It went really well and everyone seemed to be having a fantastic day.

"The ladies of Banbury should be really proud of themselves.

"The £105,000 will make a huge amount of difference to the work we can carry out over the next year."

Cancer Research UK is always looking for volunteers to help organise and run fundraising events.

For more information, call area volunteer manager Lizzie Melvin on 01295 780976 or visit cancerresearchuk.org.uk

Payback time for benefit fraudsters

TWO people have been ordered to repay thousands of pounds that they fraudulently claimed in benefits.

Tracey Abban, 30, of Ashby Court, Banbury, admitted falsely claiming £2,303.55 last year after failing to report that her husband was working full-time.

Last Friday, Banbury magistrates sentenced Abban to carry out 100 hours of unpaid work, and pay £250 court costs.

The same day, Steven Woodward, 37, formerly of Crumps Butts, Bicester, but now on the Isle of Wight, also admitted falsely claiming £2,906.58 between 2009 and 2010 after failing to report that both he and his wife were working full-time.

He was also sentenced to carry out 100 hours of unpaid work and pay £250 court costs. They were also told they must repay the money.

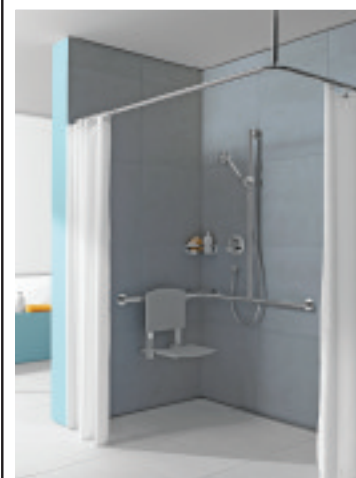

Both were discovered as part of a data-matching exercise by Cherwell District Council.

Ken Atack, Cherwell's lead member for financial management, said: "The fact that we can now check a claimant's details with so many other agencies should provide a few sleepless nights for those making fraudulent claims."

The council has prosecuted seven benefit fraudsters since the beginning of April and has another ten lined up awaiting court dates.

In the same period a further 17 have been dealt with out of court.

Since April 1 this year, housing and council tax benefits totalling £211,000 have been identified as claimed falsely and is now being recovered.

Proud to support Barnardo's

By Sam McGregor

"Carol was a battler, she was very dedicated and a great friend."

Those were words of a friend who paid tribute to councillor Carol Steward, who died last week.

The 63-year-old Bicester town and Cherwell district councillor was described by family and colleagues as a "battler" who fought for local issues.

Mrs Steward, who had a son Daniel, and two stepdaughters Kate Simmons and Jo Steward, was a former committee chairman at the town and district councils.

She oversaw Bicester in Bloom and had been a governor at Bicester Community College.

In 2004, Mrs Steward was given just weeks to live after being diagnosed with leukaemia.

But she defied doctors and battled through chemotherapy and eventually had a bone marrow transplant.

Sadly the disease returned, and on Wednesday, July 27, Mrs Steward died surrounded by her family at Oxford's Churchill Hospital.

Tributes were paid by her son Mr Steward, 24, of Arncott, who described his mum as a "fighter".

He said: "She did so many things for so many people across so many different areas.

"She was never too busy for Cherwell district councillor Carol Steward, who died after a battle against leukemia anyone and always helped anyone on her ward who came to her with a problem.

"She would throw herself into it, there were no half measures, if she was going to do a job then she was going to do it right."

During her illness she spearheaded a campaign to get as many people as possible to join the Anthony Nolan Bone Marrow register.

Mr Steward said: "She had so much fight in her eight years ago when she was diagnosed with leukaemia and this time, she always gave it a crack."

One of her proudest moments was watching her son marry his fiancée Emma last year. He said: "She held on so long for our wedding, that was really important for all of us."

Tributes poured in from fellow councillors and the community college.

Fellow Cherwell councillor Lynn Pratt said: "Carol was very community minded and would do anything for anyone."

"I always thought when she was chairman of Bicester in Bloom a weed could not grow in Bicester without her knowing about it.

"Carol was a battler, she was very dedicated and a great friend."

Bicester town mayor Rose Stratford said: "Carol put her heart into everything she did, and she worked tirelessly even when fighting her health problems."

Roger Dyson, chairman of the governors at BCC, said Mrs Steward was the driving force behind the school's ground force days where volunteers spruced up the school grounds, and was heavily involved in employing new principal Jason Clarke.

He said: "She was a very regular presence in school and provided enormous levels of support to the principal, senior management and all components of the school."

Cherwell's leader Barry Wood said she had a "terrific empathy with people from all walks of life," and opposition leader Les Sibley described her as a "hard-working campaigner who fought for local issues that were important to the people of Bicester."

● The funeral of Carol Steward will take place in Garth Park, on Friday, August 12, at 11am.

The park will be closed to the public while the service takes place. Mrs Steward's son Daniel said anyone who knew her was welcome to go along.

There will be a collection in her memory for the clinical haematology ward at the Churchill Hospital, Oxford, which cared for Mrs Steward, instead of flowers.

Road warning to Cropredy fans

By William Crossley

MUSIC fans heading to the Cropredy Festival later this month are being warned to allow extra time for their journeys due to major roadworks in and around Banbury.

Over-running work on new flood defences for Banbury means that the A361 is closed both ways north of junction 11 of the M40, near Chacombe.

This has blocked the normal route from the motorway to Cropredy, where the long-running festival organised by Fairport Convention takes place.

In addition, the A422 Ruscote Avenue in Banbury is being resurfaced by Oxfordshire County Council, affecting traffic flows on the main roads through the town. This project began last Monday and is due for completion in mid-September. As a result, the festival organisers have drawn up alternative routes to take festival traffic away from the town and keep it off narrow rural roads.

Cropredy spokesman Andy Farquarson said: "The festival is going ahead as planned and we have worked out a full traffic plan with the authorities.

Inevitably that means using alternative routes, which may entail some delays.

"We are advising festival-goers to allow extra time for

The roadblock on the A361 north-east of Banbury, just beyond the Chacombe turn their journeys and not to use junction 11."

He added: "Before lunchtime on Thursday, August 11, we want people to approach Cropredy on the A361 from the north at Daventry, then after lunch on the A423 from Southam, near Leamington Spa. This means that we can spread people around the various campsites."

He added: "We don't want to jam up Banbury, because of the roadworks there. so please stick to the A-roads and avoid the country lanes. In particular, do not use rat-runs through the neighbouring villages."

The A361 has been closed north of Banbury since March, while contractors working for the Environment Agency raise the level of the road to reduce the risk of flooding, which could affect Banbury.

Work was due to be completed at the start of this month, but after an inspection, Northamptonshire County Council, which is responsible for the section of the road affected, asked for further changes to be made.

Environment Agency flood risk manager Ian Tones said: "We will continue to work with the council to resolve this issue, so that we can complete our work on this road as soon as possible.

"While we appreciate that the extended road closures will cause inconvenience, we hope the long-term benefits will far outweigh any problems caused."

For more details of the festival, which runs from August 11 to 13, and traffic arrangements, see fairportconvention.com/cropredy.php

Readers aim to get it 'write'

By Liam Sloan

A CHARITY that sends volunteer readers into primary schools has launched a recruitment drive to help Oxfordshire overcome its child literacy problem.

Assisted Reading for Children in Oxfordshire (ARCh) already sends 180 people to help 600 children in 90 schools for three hours a week, working one-on-one with struggling pupils.

Now ARCh wants new recruits for September to help tackle the county's low Key Stage One and Key Stage Two results.

In Oxford, a quarter of 11-year-olds do not reach the expected level in English by the time they head for secondary school.

ARCh founder Jane Rendle said: "Every year we survey the schools and ask them for feedback about the children we have worked with.

"Last year we found 99 per cent of children had improved their reading and their confidence in reading.

"And among 98 per cent of them, their attitude towards reading had improved, which is really important.

"Many that we work with are chosen by their schools because perhaps they have not got the interest in reading, no-one reads to them at home, and some do not even have any books at home.

"Children can suffer from a general disinterest in reading.

"We are about encouraging reading, not teaching it, and getting them engaged in it so it is pleasurable and purposeful."

Each volunteer works for the same three children individually for a year, providing each two half-hour sessions a week and building up a mentoring relationship.

Ms Rendle added: "There may be a lot of competition these days from TVs or computers that offer instant gratification.

"Two thirds of the children we work with are boys, and perhaps they do not enjoy stories as much as girls.

"Our volunteers work hard to try to find approaches that really interest the children.

"If a boy doesn't like stories, maybe they would bring in newspaper match reports about their favourite football team."

The Bicester-based charity, which receives no county council funding, was set up in 2008 after Volunteer Reading Help axed its Oxfordshire branch.

ARCh is recruiting volunteers across the county, but focusing on Banbury, Oxford, Abingdon, and Thame. Last year, Oxford's seven-year-olds got the lowest results in the country for reading, writing and maths, while the city's Key Stage Two results remained in the bottom 10 per cent nationally.

Ms Rendle said: "It is an unsettling fact, given the demographics of Oxford in general. There are very poor areas of deprivation, and we prioritise our work in those areas and try to get our volunteers to help there."

The charity is also looking for businesses which can allow staff members to give up three hours a week to the charity. DHL in Banbury already runs such a scheme.

Earlier this month, performance poet John Foster joined illustrator Korky Paul, children's author Shen Roddie and The Big Issue founder John Bird as a patron of the charity.

Celebration time

Manager Eloise Parsons leads the singalong before the opening

By Damian Fantato

PARENTS in Tackley now have another reason to look forward to the new academic year.

The village pre-school's new building has finally been opened and is ready for its first intake in September, after youngsters have spent nearly 20 years in a temporary building.

Maxine Ward, who co-chairs Tackley pre-school committee which runs the school, said: "We have a fantastic new building, which means we can take on extra children. The portable building had become too small and had deteriorated over time."

The new building's ribbon was cut by Daphne Plumridge, 80, the woman who started the pre-school back in 1971 in the village hall and who opened the portable building in 1993.

Mrs Plumridge, who still attends the pre-school committee meetings, said: "It is absolutely wonderful. I could not believe it when I went in for the first time. Compared to what I used to operate with it is absolutely lovely."

"I am pleased I am still involved with it and it definitely made me proud."

The pre-school moved into the portable building in order to have a permanent building for itself after hiring out the village hall for more than 20 years.

The new building is in the grounds of Tackley Primary School and will be able to take 15 pupils.

The open day marked the end of a long process of obtaining funding from Oxfordshire County Council. The building was erected thanks to a series of grants from County Hall, which totalled more than £5,000.

Parent Steph Radda said: "It is lovely. When you see the old portable building, it was just an old tin shed."

"It is quite an emotional time because it has been a long time coming."

Her son, Alfie Davis, four, said: "I had a nice day and I think it is a really cool building."

News in brief

PRIMARY school pupils in Chipping Norton have raised £1,324 for charity by starting their own businesses.

The Holy Trinity Primary School children were tasked with setting up the businesses by the Rotary Club of Chipping Norton. The club and the school invested £50 each and the youngsters were tasked with turning around a profit. The winning team, Harry Mincer, 11, and Jacques Sauvanargues, 11, raised £475 by starting a car wash. The money raised will be split between the school and the rotary club's End Polio Now campaign.

AN EXHIBITION of holograms has launched at Banbury Museum.

Holograms 2 follows on from the success of 2008's Holograms, The First 60 Years exhibition. Admission is free and exhibit runs to September 3. James Macnamara, lead member for environment at Cherwell District Council, which runs the museum, said: "Visitors will be intrigued by incredibly detailed and realistic depictions of historical artefacts and birds captured in flight."

"You almost expect them to jump into the next frame."

The museum will also host hologram making classes on August 13. To book a place call 01295 753752.

MP in visit to £1.3m self-build housing project

Youngsters building their own futures

By Sam McGregor

BUILDING is well under way on an innovative £1.3m housing project where ten lucky youngsters will construct their own homes.

Banbury's MP Tony Baldry dropped in to the Miller Road self-build project to meet the first wave of apprentices who have been working at the site since December.

A total of 20 young people, aged 16 to 25, will work on the project, at a former allotment site, in Miller Road, Banbury, constructing ten maisonette-style one-bed homes, which ten of the volunteers will get to live in.

The scheme, a joint initiative between Cherwell, Southwark Habitat for Humanity, Oxford and Cherwell Valley College and Sanctuary Housing, is designed to tackle the shortage of affordable housing in Ruscote, and encourage young people to get a qualification.

The first 11 young people, who are not in education, employment or training, have already dug footings and laid bricks at the development.

Earlier, Mr Baldry presented the young people with certificates in construction and life-skills training.

He said: "I was here last year when the project first started and the transformation since then is excellent."

"This project is not only providing much-needed homes, it is going to give these young apprentices valuable new skills which will equip them for the rest of their lives."

Harj Lota, head of local partnerships for Sanctuary, said: "As well as addressing the need for more affordable homes in Banbury, this project is providing practical employment opportunities that will empower these young people and set them up with a career."

Gareth Hepworth, acting chief executive for Habitat for Humanity, added: "The core values of Southwark Habitat for Humanity encompass not only building homes, but also building communities.

"This innovative project has given us the opportunity to realise both of these principles, by creating new homes and providing local young people with the skills to build a successful future."

The second group of apprentices is due to start on site soon and the entire project is expected to be complete in early 2012.

School gets set for Cropredy festival of breakfasts

PARENTS and teachers at a village school are gearing up to feed thousands of festival goers to raise valuable funds.

Next month, for three days, Cropredy School will be transformed into a field kitchen to cook breakfasts for about 3,000 people attending Fairport's Cropredy Convention.

During the three-day festival, volunteers will cook more than 2,000 sausages and rashers of bacon and more than 1,500 eggs.

Organisers hope to raise about £5,000 which will be used to buy interactive white boards for the school.

Teacher Claire Furneaux said "I've been involved with Fairport breakfasts ever since I started working at the school and although it can be hard work it is also a great deal of fun."

"Everyone pulls together – the staff, the parents and even some of the older children get involved."

"The extra funds make a huge difference to the school."

In previous years cash raised from festival breakfasts have helped build the school's swimming pool, a foundation unit, school trips, treats for children and an outdoor learning area.

Donations have also been made to a school in Africa, which is linked with Cropredy School.

Breakfasts are served from 6.30am on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, August 12, 13 and 14.

● Music shop One Man Band, in Church Lane, Banbury, is raffling a fiddle signed by musicians performing at this year's Fairport Festival. Tickets cost £1 and proceeds will be donated to Banbury Young Homeless Project.

An alien actioner

SUPER 8 (12A, 111 mins) Sci-Fi/Action. Joel Courtney, Elle Fanning, Riley Griffiths, Ryan Lee, Gabriel Basso, Zach Mills, Kyle Chandler, Ron Eldard. Director: JJ Abrams.

In the summer of 1982, an earthbound alien phoned home and audiences wept with joy, cementing Steven Spielberg's reputation as the greatest film-maker of his generation.

E.T.: The Extra-Terrestrial was a cultural phenomenon that spoke to our inner child, envisioning the cruel world through the eyes of Elliott as he risked everything to protect his otherworldly friend from scientists and shadowy government agents.

Almost 30 years later, director JJ Abrams pays homage to Spielberg's fantasy with Super 8, a rollicking adventure with echoes of The Goonies that depicts the rampage of an alien creature in rural 1970s America from the perspective of six children whose worlds have just been rocked by Star Wars and Star Trek: The Motion Picture.

In the sleepy industrial town of Lillian, Ohio, teenager Joe Lamb (Joel Courtney) is struggling to come to terms with the death of his mother and the strain on his father, Deputy Sheriff Jackson Lamb (Kyle Chandler).

The youngster invests his time in making a low-budget zombie film with his friends.

Director Charles (Riley Griffiths) bosses everyone around while special effects expert Cary (Ryan Lee) provides the fake gore.

Dim-witted leading man Martin (Gabriel Basso) tries to remember his lines to the chagrin of long-suffering sound-man Preston (Zach Mills).

To increase the film's chances of winning first prize in a nationwide competition, Charles persuades classmate Alice (Elle Fanning) to sign up as lead actress and the children head down to the local rail station to shoot a night-time sequence.

Just as the camera starts rolling, the youngsters witness a truck drive onto the tracks and derail an oncoming freight train.

As they make a hasty escape, the trespassing teens are oblivious to the monstrous creature crawling free from the twisted wreckage.

Super 8 is a delightful nostalgia trip, recalling a bygone era when young protagonists embarked on amazing journeys and emerged from the melee with barely a scratch or bruise.

You have to suspend your disbelief throughout Abrams's film but as pure unadulterated entertainment, there is much to enjoy from the amusing banter between the children to the first clear glimpse of the monster as a reflection in a puddle at a gas station.

The centrepiece train crash is brilliantly realised and even if the creature design is an anticlimax, the digitally rendered behemoth is seamlessly integrated with the live action.

Courtney is a spirited hero of the hour and he milks genuine tears as Joe wrestles with the loss of the woman who brought him into the world.

Step back in time to 1982.

A scene from Super 8. Pictured is Kyle Chandler, as Jackson Lamb, and Joel Courtney as Joe Lamb

Hauling an anti-theft message

THE police have been showing off their latest crime-fighting weapon — a £70,000 tractor.

The John Deere 6930 was on display at the recent Game Fair at Blenheim Palace. It will be used "as an engagement tool" to combat rural crime.

Last year, 228 plant and agricultural vehicles were stolen in the Thames Valley area. In 2009, there were 254 similar offences.

The tractor, decked out in police livery and lights, has been loaned to Thames Valley Police by the Thame dealership Farol.

The lights have been donated by Lincolnshire Police and the decals were paid for through sponsorship and can be peeled off.

At large events, the tractor is transported free of charge by the dealership or, for smaller outings, the vehicle is driven by police volunteers using discounted fuel from Farol.

Insurance is provided free of charge by NFU Mutual.

The tractor is being managed by PC Paul Gregory, from the Thame Neighbourhood Team. He said: "The tractor acts as an engagement tool at large countryside events.

"We have fitted it with as much security technology as possible and are using it to draw people in and allow us to explain why it is vital tractors and other farm equipment is made as secure as possible.

"The average new tractor costs around £60,000 but this

PC Paul Gregory with a John Deere 6930 Tractor kitted out in police livery can rise to £120,000, which puts it in the same price range as a Porsche 911 or a Bentley.

"Anyone with one of these vehicles should protect them as much as possible. At the very least the vehicles should be fitted with a tracker and anti-theft device. I hope this tractor will allow us to promote the same idea for all other agricultural vehicles and machinery."

Rural-crime reduction advisor Nick Gilbert said: "While it's true that heavy plant theft is a real issue for us all, not least our local rural economy, we are working hard to try to reduce the impact upon our communities by running a number of overt and covert operations.

"I obviously can't comment on the covert aspects of our work, but in addition to the tractor initiative, in conjunction with our regional police partners, we have produced a DVD product called Shutting the Gate on Rural Crime.

The derby-clash hero

Lloyd Sabin, who scored 126

A BRILLIANT century from Lloyd Sabin put Banbury in charge of their Division 1 derby clash at Oxford on Saturday.

But they were unable to force victory as Oxford's last pair hung on for seven overs to scramble a draw.

Oxford skipper Jason Harrison must have been pleased to ask Banbury to bat first, after taking two early wickets.

Sam Cheshire and Craig Haupt both fell in a fiery opening spell from Stuart Hole to leave them on 12-2.

Following the dismissal of Richard West for 32, Sabin and Ian Tew added 154 for the fourth wicket in 34 overs.

Tew was dismissed for 66 off 112 balls, but Sabin went on to score 126 from 176 balls with 15 fours and one six.

After 60 overs, Banbury were 239-4.

They added another 62 runs in the final six overs to finish on a formidable 301-5.

In reply, Oxford openers Dan King and Harrison added 43 before King departed.

Harrison and Stewart Laudat the put 50 before wickets fell at regular intervals to the bowling of Ollie Wright (4-37) and Ed Smith (4-56).

Harrison was eighth out for 64 of 125 balls, with the score on 174.

The last pair of Ian Evans and Usman Arif then survived the last seven overs to secure a draw for Oxford, who stay in third place, well adrift of leaders High Wycombe.

STARS with Claire Petulengro

Service provided by IMS Leeds LS1 8LB. Calls cost 61p per minute at all times

ARIES Mar 21-Apr 19

There is a lot going on in the relationships in your life and you may be feeling as if you don't have any choice in a matter you thought you were in control of. Bide your time. The stars are about to prove to you that you're well and truly blessed, especially with tonight's events. Call now to hear more on this very memorable time you face.

0906 585 4360

TAURUS Apr 20-May 20

There is a new influence set to enter your life that should be the answer to all of your stresses and worries. Before you were doing what looked right and now you will finally be doing what feels right; about time too Taurus. Call my starline now to hear which friend is worth putting your reputation on the line for.

0906 585 4361

GEMINI May 21-Jun 20

Please don't take lightly what friends and close ones are asking you. The stars have bestowed the gift of wisdom upon you and the other signs in the zodiac will be flocking to you for words of advice. Be prepared that what you say will be taken literally. Call now to hear why foreign lands will soon be beckoning.

CANCER Jun 21-Jul 22

Stop living in the past. You cannot compare the past and the present because you are so much stronger now and you must try to have more faith in yourself. Try taking a few risks and you're sure to see that you have more than enough energy and experience to make your next step an important one. Call now for more on life and love.

LEO Jul 23-Aug 22

A change you have been thinking of making might have to be delayed, but don't worry, it won't be forgotten and the time lapse appears to be a blessing in disguise as events after the 12th are sure to soon prove to you. Call my star line now to hear which signs are trying to take advantage of you in the workplace.

0906 585 4364

VIRGO Aug 23-Sep 22

Use the aspects at this time to be mature and to curb the spending which you seem to think is such a necessity. Think about it. Do you really need to buy what is on your mind? Love has much to offer you, especially if you're willing to speak from the heart after 6pm. Call my starline now to find out more.

0906 585 4365

LIBRA Sep 23-Oct 22

There is a lot that you want to do with your time and you must make sure that you do not accept more temporary than your funds can cover. Good news concerning a social event should arrive and you should also be put in touch with a face you have long wanted to meet. Call now for more on this exciting month.

0906 585 4366

SCORPIO Oct 23-Nov 21

Love is at the forefront of your mind as you try to work out what the best way is to let a certain person know how you are feeling. Take my advice and say what comes naturally. When you plan things you end up speaking more in circles than when you don't plan. Venus is offering you the gift of honesty and clarity so make sure you use it. Call now to hear more.

SAGITTARIUS Nov 22-Dec 21

Do not be led on by someone's flirtatious behaviour. You are in need of something permanent not temporary; so don't kid yourself. News of an important occasion should give you much to look forward to with loved ones. Call my star line now to hear why Aries must not be told those secrets you are currently keeping.

CAPRICORN Dec 22-Jan 19

You may have to make a change in your usual routine to fit in with the plans of another person. However, this should be beneficial to you at a later date when you need to ask them for a favour, so try not to create too much of a scene. Call my starline now to hear why investments are so well starred at this time.

AQUARIUS Jan 20-Feb 18

If you haven't made up with a loved one after an argument then do it now. Not only can you not afford to fall out with them on this day but you could be missing out on an offer they have been wanting to make but which they might shortly withdraw if you continue with this standoffish attitude. Call now for news in full.

0906 585 4370

PISCES Feb 19-Mar 20

Make some time for yourself today as the stars indicate that you have taken on more than usual and might be a little stressed. Romance is on offer if you can open your eyes a little wider. Someone is trying to tell you what you have waited months to hear and you don't want to miss it. Call now for an update on family issues.

JOBS

Conference Venues Administrator

Competitive salary • Deddington, Oxfordshire

Co-ordinating venues across 300+ events annually, you will liaise between the venues, conference managers and speakers to support the business. You will need excellent administrative skills and experience of working in the events industry would be an advantage. With good planning abilities in the longer, mid and short term, you will also demonstrate strong negotiation, financial and communications skills, and attention to detail. You will be able to work equally well independently to manage your own workload, as well as being part of a team providing cover and assistance in other administrative duties and acting in a support capacity. We will require you to demonstrate above basic IT capabilities and be driven to continual process improvements. Although ideally a full time role, hours can be truncated to suit a shorter working day for this position.

Please email your CV, covering letter and salary details to recruitment@hachette.co.uk Alternatively, send to: HR Department, HUK, 338 Euston Road, London NW1 3BH.

Please note that only short-listed candidates will be contacted.

Hachette UK is an equal opportunities employer and employs people on the basis of their abilities.

Versatile van enters whole new phase

If you want to get ahead, get a hat. If you want to make some friends, get a van. It's amazing how quickly that news gets around that you have a seriously useful vehicle on the driveway. So within a day or so, the phone is ringing and tables, book cases, even fireplaces have been shifted from A to B.

And that happens with great ease when the vehicle is as versatile as the latest generation Renault Traffic, which is a product of a deal that goes back to 1996 between Renault and General Motors. That co-operation led to the production of the Traffic and its Nissan, Vauxhall and Opel equivalents.

Despite the French vehicle maker's badge on the bonnet, most Traffic production is based in the UK at the IBC Motors plant in Luton, with high-roof models made at Nissan's Barcelona plant.

The test model was the best-selling version of the Traffic panel van, the short wheelbase, low roof version, which has a load area length of 2.4m and interior height of 1.380m to provide five cubic metres of load space. Despite its chunky looks, it is surprisingly easy to manage and comfortable to drive. With suspension and steering development owing much to Renault's people carrier engineering expertise, the Traffic delivers a quiet, comfortable and secure ride. The introduction of the 'Phase 3' van has produced revised styling with one-piece headlamp units with built-in indicators, a redesigned cab and more equipment with a Carminat TomTom satellite navigation system fitted as standard. While interior equipment has improved, the 2.0-litre dCi engine, linked to a standard six-speed manual gearbox, now delivers better fuel efficiency and lower CO<sub>2</sub> emissions.

By David Duffy

Equipment levels are close to those you might expect from an up-to-date family saloon with climate control, cruise control, speed limiter and more sophisticated audio systems, including MP3 file playback, introduced to the range. The panel van version, which also comes with Bluetooth telephone connection for hands-free communications, offers easy loading with a low sill height, large, wide-opening rear doors and sliding doors.

There is no shortage of choice, with short and long wheelbases and low and high roof height options. The choice of powertrains, roof heights, engines, transmissions, payloads, specifications and body styles means there are more than 100 versions available. Add to that the opportunity for owners to create custom bodies and the range is almost limitless.

Latest motoring news in brief

■ Japanese Japanese carmaker Honda is introducing four years of free servicing and roadside assistance on a range of models. This offer is available on CR-Z, Insight and British-built Jazz (excluding Jazz Hybrid), Civic and CR-V orders until the end of September. Complementing the free servicing and roadside assistance is a range of four-year finance options designed to reduce monthly payments. ■ McLaren is continuing its push into the supercar market with the official opening of its new Birmingham showroom. Positioned to serve central England and Wales, it is located in the Hockley Heath area of the city. Operated by Rybrook Holdings, the company represents McLaren Automotive as McLaren Birmingham and is responsible for selling the all-new MP4-12C and future McLaren Automotive models.

■ BMW has announced a host of detail changes and new models across its range of cars, with improvements in efficiency and specification at the core. Of most interest is the new 520d Efficient Dynamics, which improves on the existing 520d model to deliver a remarkable set of figures. While the 182bhp output is unchanged, changes to the drivetrain and a dedicated Eco-Pro mode allow it to achieve 62.8mpg combined and an emissions figure of 119g/km. The 520d ED is available from September starting at £30,435.

Arthritis

The word Arthritis comes from the Greek word 'Arthro' meaning joint and 'itis' meaning inflammation, so when you have an inflamed joint you have arthritis. The problem that we have with the word arthritis is that it is been used wrongly for any pain that a person has. It has taken over from words such as 'Lumbago' or 'Rheumatism'.

When most people think of arthritis they think of worn and degenerated joints. The name for this is 'Degenerative joint Disease' but the irony is that it is usually not a disease but 'wear and tear'. If the joint is inflamed then this can be called arthritis.

There are categories of Arthritis with many types in each:

1. Osteoarthritis: This is when joints have been damaged and worn with the ligament tissue also torn or worn. The body starts adding bone at the pressure areas to make it stronger. This becomes the bony spurs or misshapen bones that you see on x-ray.

Chiropractic treatment for this is to get the joints moving again then help the body re-aligned so that posture repair can occur and the forces throughout the body are once again balanced. This is a physical handling and needs to be done before too much wear has occurred. Many times drugs are given to try and reduce the pain from the wear and tear but this does not heal the areas and the pain may become so bad that only replacement joints will handle the pain.

2. Inflammatory Arthritis: This type of arthritis is when the bones start to break down and be reabsorbed by the body. There is definitely inflammation throughout the body with this type of arthritis. Research has shown that diet plays a big part in this type of arthritis and is the only real cure for it. Once again drugs are given to try to alleviate the pain and inflammation and in the last few years steroids have been used but unfortunately there is a trade off with to many of them.

3. Infectious Arthritis: This is more uncommon and is caused by such diseases as TB. If this has progressed to the spine it is very serious as it affects the discs between the bones.

This can lead to a collapse of the discs between the shoulders and end with a hunchback effect to the spine.

What is an adjustment?

Why get adjusted?

When the 24 bones that protect the spinal cord lose their normal position or motion, delicate nerve tissue can become stretched or irritated. When a thorough examination of the spine reveals malfunctioning areas, chiropractic adjustments are used to help correct this problem.

A chiropractic adjustment is the use of a specific force in a precise direction, applied to a joint or joints that are fixated, "locked up" or not moving properly. Adjustments help the joints to return to a more flexible motion and a more ideal position thereby relieving pain and many symptoms. In other words, the adjustment keeps the joints moving.

There are many ways to move the joints but it is usually the chiropractor's hands that are used. Other ways are with tables that have sections that drop and allow the force to move the joints. For older and more fragile patients, wedges and soft tissue techniques are used. Regardless of the technique used, each chiropractic adjustment is tailored to the patient's age, size and unique spinal problem.

Chiropractic adjustments are so safe, even newborns and children receive adjustments to repair the damage caused from difficult births or the general birth process, learning to walk and many other childhood falls and traumas.

By keeping the spinal joints moving, adjustments help normalize spinal function and can help reduce bone and soft tissue degeneration.
